

STATE OF THE ART

STUDENT ART SHOW

ROOTS

This youth art exhibit is an annual collaboration between the National Museum of Wildlife Art & 12 art educators from 11 Teton County schools. The several hundred works of art on display beautifully demonstrate how students grow as artists as they move through grades K-12. Each art educator interpreted the theme Roots in their own way. The diversity of media and artistic approach showcases the creativity of our students and the quality of art education in Teton County!

This school year was one of the most difficult on record, so this exhibit celebrates not only the students and their boundless imaginations, but also the art educators who made this all possible.
